Loveland Living Planet Aquarium hosts Legislative Night

Each year The Loveland Living Planet Aquarium welcomes Utah legislators for an evening of fun at the aquarium. We will host a night for legislators on Monday, February 24.

“We are pleased to continue this tradition. It means a lot to us to have support from Utah lawmakers. Our Legislative Night is to show our appreciation for what they have helped us accomplish,” said Brent Andersen, CEO of The Loveland Living Planet Aquarium.

A light dinner will be served and aquarium employees will give behind the scenes tours for our guests, including the Journey to South America gallery, the Discover Utah gallery, and the Ocean Explorer gallery.

“For the size of its population, Utah has the finest constellation of world-class museums and discovery centers in the United States. While most of their funding comes from the private sector, the Utah Legislature funds these science centers to provide outreach to Utah schools with experiences at school as well as site visits to the museums, all aligned with Utah's science curriculum. The newest of these facilities is the world-class Loveland Living Planet Aquarium which will not only serve students and enhance our quality of life, but will also increase tourism and economic expansion,” said Utah Senator Howard Stephenson.

“The aquarium will be a top cultural attraction in our state and an amazing asset for the city of Draper. It will bring children and families from all across the Wasatch Front and surrounding areas to experience something unlike anything we’ve had before in the state of Utah, said State Representative Greg Hughes. “This will create even greater opportunities for business development in the area, and our citizens will directly benefit from those opportunities.”

We invite the media to come to our first large event at our new facility! Media RSVP requested.
